"Three short musicals about the complications of love takes the audience on a pleasant journey through three scenarios where love may or may not conquer all ... often humorous ... definitely light romantic comedy ... Russ has a way with a sentimental ballad and her music never fails to pull on the heart strings. Rich choral harmonies show off the cast en masse ... lovely soprano voices ... moving ... Musical director Richard Berent's instrumental arrangements are crisp and easily heard ... Cole keeps the overall movement of the show fluid, adding some light dance staging to enhance character personalities."

"Refreshing ... Haverty and Russ, no strangers to successful musical ventures, have taken the topic of love and have created a bold effort at showing the intermingling of different aspects of love ... Under the steady hand of Kay Cole all manage to shine in one form or another and a lot of it works delightfully ... Many of the songs are quite lovely, and love, in all of its shades and colors, is always a treat to experience ... A delicious opening 'One, Two, Three' puts the entire ensemble together to set the tone for the evening. The song 'One Life' says it best about seizing love when it comes along... before it is too late ... edgy and oh so playful ... Under Kay Cole's fine staging and movement, the actors all have terrific moments ... Russ and Haverty have written some lovely songs especially "One Life," "When the Man Comes" and the title "Love Again..." If you like sweet, simple odes to love, then this will surely satisfy."
